TO THE WINDS.

Talk to my heart, O winds— Talk to my heart to-night; My spirit always find, With you a new delight— Finds always new delight, In your silver talk at night.

Come up from your cald bod, fu the stilly twilight sea, for the desirest hope lies dead. That wis ever dear to me; Come up from your ud beat, And we'll talk about the dead.

Tell mo, for oft you go,
Winds, lovely winds of night,
About the chambers low,
With sheets so dainty white,
If they sloop th ough all the night,
In the beds so chill and white? Telk to me, winds, and say,
If in the grave be rest;
For, O. life's little day
Is a weary one at best;
Talk to my heart and say
If doubth wall give me rest.

THIS AND THAT.

Bottom of the Ocean. Mr. Green, the famous diver, tells singular stories of his adventures, when making search in the deep waters of the ocean. He gives some sketches of what he saw on ing search in the deep waters of the ocean. He gives some sketches of what he saw on the Silver Banks, near Hayti:

The banks of coral on which my divings, narrated in the previous chapter, were made, are about forty mites in length, and from ten to twenty in breath.

On this bank of coral is presented to the diver one of the most beautiful and sublime scenes the eye ever behold. The water varies from ten to one hundred feet in depth, and so clear that the diver can see from two to three hundred feet, when submerged, with little obstruction to the sight.

The bottom of the coean in many places on these banks, is as smooth as a marble floor; in others it is studded with coral colums, from ten to one hundred feet in height, and from one to eighty feet in di-mor; moters it is studed with cord colums, from ten to, one hundred feet in height, and from one to eighty feet in dinameter. The tops of those more lofty support a myriad of pyramid pendants, each forming a myriad more; giving the reality to the imaginary abode of some water nymph. In other places, the pendants form arch after arch, and as the diverstands on the bottom of the ocean, and gazes through these into the deep winding the sacred an awe as in the work in some old cathedral, which had long been buried beneath "old ocean's wave." Here and there, the coral extends even to the surface of the water, as if some laftier columns were towers belonging to those stately temples now in ruins.

There were countless varieties of diminutive trees, chrubs and plants, in every crevice of the corals where the water had deposited the least earth. They were all of a faint hue, owing to the pale light they received, although of every shade, and entirely different from plants I am familiar with that vegetate upon during the control of the control o treily different from plants I am familiar with that vegetate upon dry fand. One in particular attracted my attention; it resembled a sea-fan of immense size, of variegared colors, and of the most brilliant

THE Wood RANGERS cannot fail to entite the warm sympathles of the reader, who will here findthat the takented author has entered a new field, rich in all the romantic incident whichis pen is so capable of working up into those thrilling climaxes, which, while they startle the imasination, enchain the mind, as, with a magician's wand, each new wonder is revealed to the absorbed and attentive reader.

Into when the big Beronda, Capt. S. A.

der is revealed to too absorbed and attentive reader.

The porfity and wickedness of the ambitious Antonio de Mediana, in compassing the murder of his brother's wife, and, as he supposed, the destruction of her son, are graphically contrasted with the devotion and noble daring of flore Rose and his singular companion Paper, while the love-passages of Fabian (the son of the Countered & Mediana, lost in Sor ors under the name of Thoricarellanos), and the thrilling adventures of the carpedition to the Golden Valley, are interestly intresting."

ONE AND TWENTY, by the author of "Wind-viower" New York: Robert M. DeWitt Publisher. For Sale in Newport WH. A. Bleeger.

A want of time prevents us from reviewing tals excellent work as much at leagth as its ceview of it from the pen of a leading Ameri-omething, but extend to him the right hand the strown all her power into this work, which is by far the best of the many excellent ones that have issued from her; and we tink will take rank as the most brilliant novel of the day. The onascerts are drawn with a most masterly hand, evincing a thorough knowledge of the man springs of tuman action, and a deep insight into the controlling passions which prompt us to good or to evil the death one spider, wore his web with such aboth set in hanhood, and woo, like the loath one spider, wore his web with such aboth exill around the lunneent object of his passion, finds himself toiled at its, and reaps a terrible harvest. So true is it that "The talented author of " WILDFLOWER,"

Wil reap the win luind. "

JESSIE CAMERON, A Domestic Story of Scotleb Life, by Lady Raches! Bu let, New York: Robert M. DeWitt Pibliher. For Sale in Newport by Wn. A BARBER.

The reader will have find a story of life as It is realized in the pure an Theathery bills of Scotland-a life devoid of consultions, jeulous ics and startling incidents, but such a life as every right-minded mother would wish to see realized by a darling daughter. That the fema's heart is at all times and in all places subject to the same influences, none can deny; and in even the sequestered locality of this work, the power of ' Love' is vividly po trayed. But it is a love which, while ened to death in Philadelphia, o few days since, by a monkey. relf-denial, la never nowerful enough to cause her to merge her felth in the divine in that of her love's divinity. The struggle of years, the cold neglect, the marriage even of her betrothed, cannot steal her heart against the calls of humanity; and when the mighty waters rise, and overwhelm at ouccher faith. less lover and her rival, then dock our hero-ine, by an act of high daring, prove to them, to herself and to the world, that "the heart which loves truly can never forget."

NEWPORT DAILY NEWS THREE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

Arrival of the Arabia at Hallfax.

If ALEFAN, July 13.—The Royal Mail steam-ship Arabis, from Liverpool 30th via Queens-town July 1, arrived at this port this P. M. The Arabia brings 121 passengers. She was cetained twenty-four hours outside the harbor by fog. She will sail for Boston about 3 P. M. Naples. .

Naples.

The Neapolital Government had yielded to the energetic demands of the American and Piedmontese Ministers, and ordered the release of the two captured vessels, with their crews and passengers. The American war sloop Iroquois went in Narles especially to assist the American Minister in his representations.

The agitation at Naples had increased. A most inflammatory proselamation had been most inflammatory proselamation had been messued by the Central Revolutionary Committee, cashing upon the people to rise.

The French Ambassador had been most terribly materated in the streets, it is sunposad by members of the anti-reform party. He was beaten senseless.

The Commissarian of the twelve districts of Naples were simulaseously attacked and pillages on the 28th. The agents were murdered and the archives hurnt.

Replea was declared in a state of slege, and street assemblages probibited.

The nows is confirmed that the King of Naplea had granted a new and liberal constitution on the terms already published.

The tri-colored flag had cern formally inaugurated on the public buildings, palices and war vessels, and was saluted by foreign ships of war.

The new Cabinet has been completed.—Commander Spinelli is Fresident of the Council; Commander Martino is Minist in of Foreign Albirs; Signor Manna of finances; Marshat Lettaci of War.
